

Greeting from the President

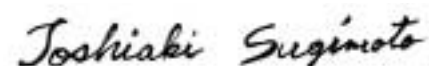

Although capital investment and residential construction have remained unchanged in our country's economy, prolonged economic expansion is expected to continue in the immediate future because of continuous improvement of corporate profits backed by improved employment, pickup in personal consumption and increased export. In the world economy, gradual economic expansion is continuing in the US and Europe, and the economic growth in Asia and BRICs is leading to further globalization. On the other hand, there have been more unstable factors such as fluctuation in stock prices and exchange rates, and change in oil prices.

Under the circumstances, setting the completion of reformation of the core business and acceleration of optimization of the global business development as the highest priority for the 46th fiscal period, we have restructured the management base so as to shift the management direction from reformation to growth. As a result, although the cost to sales ratio improved and the fixed cost was controlled, the extraordinary loss posted with a high regard for the financial strength related to the business structural change has resulted in the substantial decline in both the operating income and current net income relative to the previous year's result.

For the engineering plastic business, the improvement in profitability and the enhancement of the global system have improved the business as a core business of Enplas. Also, although the business environment of the optplanics business is showing a continuously expanding trend, in order to make it the business model specific to our company for achieving a stable profit structure in the extreme fluctuation in demand, we have returned to the starting line to restart the business as a technology-led business entity specializing in the core technologies. For the semiconductor peripheral business, our new probe cards business is growing, the basis of the global business development has improved, and the test sockets business has made good progress. On the other hand, Liquid-crystal display device business has experienced substantial fall in revenue in the 46th fiscal year after the astounding increase in revenue in the 45th fiscal year, and we have aimed at a structural shift of the business toward accelerated development of next-generation products and optimized support for the global market.

It gives us great pleasure to announce that we had our 45th anniversary in February 2007. We intend to continue to pursue further advanced technologies and provide creative values to the global market based on the accumulated advanced technology of engineering plastic, having a new vision as we look forward to our 50th anniversary in five years.

Your continued support will be greatly appreciated.

Toshiaki Sugimoto,
President

July 2007

Management Policies

1. Basic management policies

The Enplas group has carried out a product strategy supported by engineering plastics and created using its proprietary technologies and designs based on the following management philosophies: 1) creating high-value-added products from engineering plastics by pursuing and utilizing state-of-art technologies to respond to the needs of the global market; 2) establishing a solid management structure that can respond to any changes from a global perspective; 3) challenging creative objectives; and 4) fostering customer satisfaction and fulfilling lives of their employees under a bond of trust, and contributing to social development.

In this consolidated fiscal year, to convey a strong message of Challenge 45, New Enplas, Enplas has formulated the following basic management policies: 1) build a steady, healthy management path; 2) improve inventive activity and the supply capacity through mass-production; 3) restructure and optimize the global business with the focus on Asian region; 4) accelerate the establishment of new businesses. We have been endeavoring to reinforce and stabilize our profit base through continuation and completion of structural reform of our core business and are proactively committed to implement the strategies for the year in order to prove our stable growth as a global center with the results.

2. Target management benchmark

The Enplas group is working to facilitate group solidarity by continuing to set a management benchmark for a consolidated per share net income for each fiscal year. To reach the 100-yen mark again in the early stage and increase share of the profit for shareholders, the whole group is engaged in the critical strategies based on the basic management policies.

3. Medium- to long-term management strategies

Enplas has formulated a midterm management strategy to promptly respond to the changes in management environment and to establish a global-based high profit management system with selected and more focused business segments. The basic management policies are: 1) creating a new Enplas with “plastic optics” and “plastic mechanics” focusing on gears as core businesses; 2) becoming a top industrial manufacturer by further enhancing specialization in group companies; 3) creating promising new businesses able to shoulder next generation growth; and 4) establishing the Enplas brand based on the foundation of our integrated group power. We intend to make efforts to respond to market changes flexibly and promptly and develop active businesses with respect for the independence of each group company.

Business Results and Financial Status

4. The issues to be dealt with by Enplas

The Enplas group has established an organizational structure to allow consistent growth, as we have specified engineering plastics and optics businesses as core businesses and attempted to expand the business areas, while maintaining the growth in semi-conductor and liquid-crystal display businesses where we lead the industry with our specialized technology. In the significantly changing business and market environments, we, as a leading technologically creative business, are engaged in a business restructuring needed for establishment of a high-profit structure focusing on healthy finance status, pursuing business innovation and efficient management, and aiming to reduce fixed cost significantly. In this consolidated fiscal year, aiming to get the results of our business structural reform, we verified the strategies implemented up to mid-term and established a revenue base. Furthermore, we will attempt again to explore a new market for our core technologies supported by engineering plastics, mechanics, optics and electronics technologies, and will be proactively engaged in the creation of a new business supported by both the development of unique products based on the intellectual property strategy and global marketing.

Review of Operations for the Year

1 Business Results

(1) Performance overview in this consolidated fiscal year

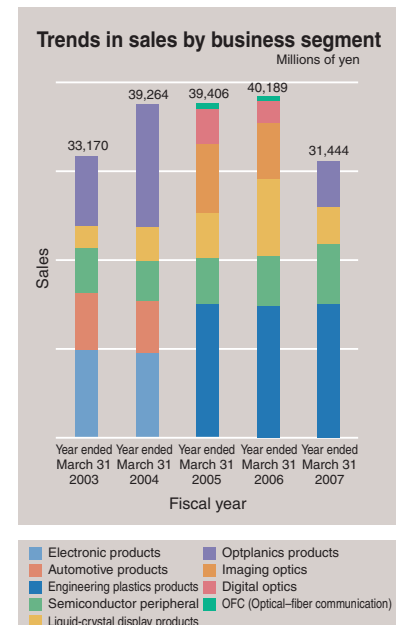

During this consolidated fiscal year, with the interest rate continuing to increase in the United States, housing investment slowed considerably, while consumer spending and capital investment stopped falling. While Europe saw steady growth in capital investment and recovery of consumer spending, investment and import led growth still continues in the Asian economy supported by China. Although the Japanese economy has had slow growth supported by the increased capital investment due to improved business profits and consumer spending driven by the improved workforce condition and increased earnings, uncertainly still prevails due to the concerns over the trends in the U.S. economy and oil prices, unstable global political climate, and slow capital investment.

The electronics parts industry continues to be affected by the trend for borderless globalization and shortened life cycle due to the expansion and deepening of digital technologies, while the business environment is expected to remain challenging with the price competition mainly driven by the shift of production sites to the Asian region continuing. Under these circumstances, in order to prove our stable growth as global center with the results, the Enplas Group has been committed to proactive business management for the year through completion of structural reform of our core business and to the restructuring of high-profit business base allowing for continuous growth in core businesses.

As a result, annual consolidated net sales was 31,444 million yen, down by 21.8% year-on-year; despite the profit increase in the semi-conductor business, the result remained unchanged in the engineering plastics business and, with the fall of sales by 50%, optics and liquid-crystal businesses suffered a substantial profit loss largely affected by the increasingly fierce price competition, reviewed business strategy, and the shift to China and other Asian countries.

Sales	31,444 million yen	(Down 21.8% year over year)
Operating income	2,094 million yen	(Down 43.3% year over year)
Ordinary income	2,173 million yen	(Down 43.3% year over year)
Net income	17 million yen	(Down 98.8% year over year)
Net income per share	0.87 yen	(Down 69.94 yen year over year)
Capital investment	1,732 million yen
Depreciation	2,715 million yen
Experimental research	1,297 million yen

Regarding profits and losses, despite the improved sales cost ratio and reduced general administrative expense, operating income was 2,094 million yen, down by 43.3% year-on-year, and ordinary income 2,173 million yen was down by 43.3%. The posted extraordinary loss, 1,427 million yen, includes the impairment loss on fixed assets due to restructuring of the optics business, elimination of inventories, and global production system restructuring cost, and net income totaled 17 million yen, down by 98.8% year-on-year.

2) Sales by Business Segment

a. Engineering plastics products

Sales 15,226 million yen (down 1.6% year over year)

With regard to the engineering plastics business, we are aiming to make our products the de facto global standard for gears, particularly targeting high-precision gears, and are dedicated to actively promoting the proposal-based management strategies by taking advantage of the superiority and uniqueness in technologies. "Global mother" plant in Kanuma and Enplas (Vietnam) Co., Ltd. have advanced innovative production and stable operation, respectively. Furthermore, we have continued with the gear solutions business and proposed higher capabilities while promoting gear trains to achieve a higher level of customer satisfaction. Enplas also aimed to expand its market through placing of Enplas developed gears on the market, development of new precision mechanics part products, and actively responding to emerging markets in the Asia-China region. As a consequence of focusing and strategically selecting customers, segment net sales were 15,226 million yen (down by 1.6% year-on-year).

b. Semiconductor peripheral products

Sales 6,794 million yen (up 16.4% year over year)

Amid the wildly swinging semiconductor market trend, the group has put enormous effort in semiconductor peripheral business to further reinforce its global sales system, applying a cutting-edge element technology with potential customer needs for development and proposal of sockets with market competitiveness, and expanding its market share in the test socket business. As a result of actively promoting the strengthened probe guard business base, segment net sales totaled 6,794 million yen (up by 16.4% year-on-year).

c. Liquid-crystal display device products

Sales 4,189 million yen (down 53.7% year over year)

The group is committed to continue to promote its light guide panels (LGPs) with high efficiency and quality using its unique, proprietary technical advantage as the de facto standard and to develop next generation light guide panels to always lead the industry. We have also focused on improving our market share and global sales of core notebook PC standard LGPs, small-sized LGP mobile terminals (mobile) and digital cameras as well as reinforcing and expanding our services for Chinese and Taiwanese markets. Despite this, greatly affected by the stagnation in Liquid-crystal display market since the end of the previous fiscal year due to the price decline and fierce competition, and the shift of production sties to Asia, segment net sales totaled 4,189 million yen, down by 53.7% year-on-year.

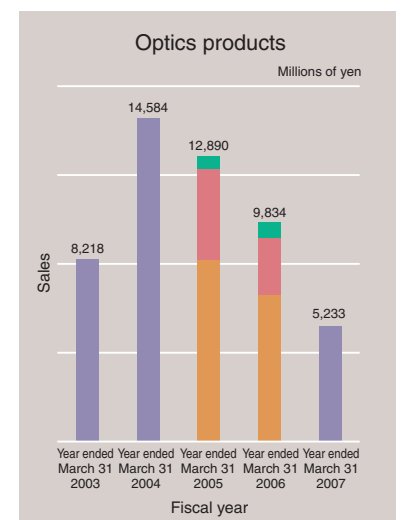

d. Optplanics products

Sales 5,233 million yen (down 46.8% year over year)

Despite the huge market size for optics products such as camera embedded mobile phones and optical pick up for optical disc recorders/players, the price competition is increasingly fierce, which is typical for digital consumer goods, and new competition continues to enter the market.

The Enplas Group has concluded the business reconstructing that started in the previous year and, in order to establish a sustainable growth base in the swinging market, the group now puts in place the strategies of selecting and focusing on the more specialized business area and strategic products through consolidation, enhanced global marketing and development capabilities, and cost reduction as well as sales expansion of high-value-added products through innovative technology and production. Despite a seemingly bright prospect for optical fiber communication market due to optical device sales, hugely affected by the market stagnation due to the price decline and fierce competition and specialization in strategic products for lens unit business, the segment net sales totaled 5,233 million yen, down by 46.8% year-on-year.

(5) Basis of Presenting the Consolidated Financial Statements

1. Scope of consolidation

Enplas Nanotech Inc was liquidated in this consolidated fiscal year and therefore has been omitted from the consolidated subsidiaries.

2. Accounting

Accounting for significant allowances and reserves

Accrued bonuses to directors Accrued bonuses to directors are provided at the estimated amount payable for the potential payment of directors' bonuses for this consolidated fiscal year.

(Change to accounting policies)

Beginning in the current consolidated fiscal year, "Accounting Guidelines for Directors' Bonus (by the Business Accounting Council, Business Accounting Guideline No.4, November 29, 2005) has been applied. As a result, operating income, ordinary income, and the net income before income taxes and minority interests has been reduced by 46,750,000 yen compared to the figure calculated in accordance with the conventional method. Note that the effect of this change on segment information is specified in the relevant section.

3. Changes to the accounting system

(Accounting Guidelines for Presentation of Net Assets on Balance Sheets)

Beginning in the current consolidated fiscal year, "Accounting Guidelines for Presentation of Net Assets on Balance Sheets" (Business Accounting Guideline No.5, December 9, 2005) and "Policies on Accounting guidelines for Presentation of Net Assets on Balance Sheets" (Business Accounting Guideline Policy No.8, December 9, 2005) have been applied. These changes do not affect the income. Note that the total of 44,268,927,000 yen falls under the conventional asset categories. Consolidated financial statements for the current consolidated fiscal year have been presented in accordance with the revised rules on consolidated financial statements.

(Accounting Guidelines for Stock Options)

Beginning in the current consolidated fiscal year, "Accounting Guidelines for Stock Options" (Business Accounting Guideline No.8, December 27, 2005) and "Policies on Accounting Guidelines for Stock Options" (Business Accounting Guideline Policy No.11, May 31, 2006) have been applied. These changes do not affect the income.

Note that disclosure of other changes to the accounting system is omitted, as no significant changes have been made compared with the description in the recent marketable security report (submitted on June 29, 2006).
